第四部分 写作

第一节 短文改错

Our school has witnessed quite a few change in the past changes few years. There used to being a playground on the one side of the main road. However, now that you can see is a new classroom building, so the playground is now in the front of the school. On the other side stood a new building—our library. Most of we students like to study in the library partly because its quiet learning environment is beneficial with our study. Another reason is that there is a large number of learning materials in the library that offer us a great deal of information. I think our school becomes ^ beautiful than ever before.

第二节 书面表达

Dear Terry,

I'm honored to know that you've decided to have a taste of the Lantern Festival in my city. I'm also more than pleased to reserve a hotel for you in advance. But I need some details of your travel. Firstly, when will your flight arrive at the airport? If I'm available then, I will pick you up. Besides, prices of a hotel room range from RMB 399 to 999, so which kind of room do you prefer? And more importantly, how many rooms do you exactly need? Only if I figure out all of the questions can I make reservations for you.

Please give me more detailed information about your schedule. Looking forward to your early coming.

Yours sincerely,
Li Hua

听力录音文稿

Text 1

W: Would you like to come to my party next weekend, Liam? It's for my birthday. We'll have a cake and ice creams and play party games.

M: Sure, I'd love to! I'll bring you a present or two. Just tell me what you'd like to have.

Text 2

M: Hey, Susan. What's your schedule for school this year? I hope we have some classes together. You're a good study partner.

W: Aw, you're sweet, Mike. I think we only have lunch together this year. But we can still study together if you want.

Text 3

M: Oh, no. My throat is hurting. What's in these cookies you made? I forgot to tell you I'm allergic to peanuts and walnuts.

W: There aren't any nuts in them... but I did use peanut oil! We'd better call the school nurse!

Text 4

M: Do you want to get some snacks before we go into the theater?

W: Yeah, I'll have some popcorn. What I really need right now is a bathroom, though!

M: Oh, OK. Go straight down and take a left. You'll see the bathrooms right there.

Text 5

M: Can you lend me $20? I get paid from my part-time job on Friday, but I don't have any money for lunch for today and tomorrow.

W: That's fine. Just remember to give it to me next Friday!

Text 6

W: My parents decided to take me to the southwest United States for summer vacation. Can you believe it? Most of my friends are going to the sunny beach in Florida. It's nice and cool there right now, and I love to relax by the waves. But I'm heading for the hot, dry desert. What do you think of the desert?

M: That's not so bad. There are strange desert plants and beautiful sunsets, and some areas have huge rock mountains. It can be really amazing.

W: Really? It seems boring to me. Is there anything fun to do?

M: Oh, yes. I went there last year with a big tourist group, and we were always busy. We hiked through the desert and climbed over rocks and went through valleys. We saw some unbelievable historical sights from many years ago.

W: Hmm. Well, maybe it won't be so bad after all.

M: Look at this fantastic architecture! This building is so impressive. I love the high ceilings and long, tall windows. The light in here is the most wonderful.

W: I know. I love coming to this museum. I love the art in it, but I love the feeling inside the building most of all. Everyone is quiet and respectful. And it seems peaceful and grand, like it has been here for ages.

M: I know what you mean. We have to go upstairs and look at the glass ceiling. It's made of hundreds of different pieces of colored glass. It will amaze you.

W: Wow! I must see that. I want to find out who built this place. If he or she designed any other buildings around town, we could go visit them, too.

M: Hmm, that's a good idea! It will be like an art hunt. Let's ask the museum tour guides if they know about the architect. We should visit the museum gift shop before we leave for the hunt, too.

W: Okay. Let's go!

Text 8

W: I really need to lose some weight. I think I'm going to go on a diet.

M: I think a little exercise would do you good.

W: What's wrong with going on a diet? If I don't eat much for a few weeks, I should be able to lose a few pounds.

M: Combining exercise with a healthy diet is the most useful way to lose weight. But if you have to choose between exercise and a diet, exercise is the better choice.

W: I hate working out. Besides, I don't want my muscles to get too big.

M: If you do yoga or swimming, you can strengthen your body without building up too many muscles.

W: I do like yoga. Do they have any yoga classes at your gym?

M: I'm not sure, but I can look it up for you.

W: Do you think I'd still have to go on a diet to lose weight?

M: I'm not an expert, so I can't tell you. But the trainers at the gym will be able to advise you on your diet and can help you come up with a fitness plan.

W: That's exactly what I need! Thanks for your help!

M: You are welcome.

Text 9

W: Andrew?

M: What is it, Martina?

W: Your mother left specific instructions for you to do your homework before playing video games. Just now, I heard the TV in your room. Are you finished with your homework?

M: Uh, no... I'll bring it down.

W: Thank you. Do you need any help? I'm pretty good at math.

M: No, that's OK. I know how to do everything, and I only have 20 problems left. I'm already halfway done.

W: Good. While you finish that, I'll start dinner. What do you want to have?

M: We usually have hamburgers on Thursday nights. The meat is in the downstairs freezer. Do you want me to get it?

W: No, I'll do it. Just keep going with your work. Do you have homework for any other subjects?

M: My English teacher gave us two chapters to read, but I finished that on the bus back from school.

W: You know, when I was your age, I only had about 30 minutes of homework a night. And we never got any homework on the weekends.

M: Really? I probably have two hours of homework per night, and I have at least an hour every weekend.

W: Yeah, it's the same with Jasmine, one of the other kids I watch during the week. She actually has even more than you because she goes to a private school!

M: Wow. So, I'm almost finished with these problems. Can I help you with dinner after that?

W: Of course! I'll definitely put you to work, my friend!

One of the most interesting new products is the smart watch. It looks just like a fashionable watch that you might find at a modern jewelry store. But a smart watch connects to your smart phone and offers other features besides the time and an alarm clock. You can answer phone calls, read text messages, and check your schedule. Your smart watch can remind you when to leave for an appointment, and it will automatically know whether the traffic is heavy or not. It is also possible to send simple responses to messages and emails. There are also a few popular apps that are on your smart watch, like Facebook and Twitter, with more apps being added all the time. Right now, a smart watch owner can record short voice messages for others, but they can not write long messages because there is no keyboard. Most people who bought smart watches chose either a Samsung Gear or an Apple Watch. The main difference is the cost: The Apple Watch is about twice the price of the Samsung Gear. Smart watch owners seem to be very satisfied—90% say they would buy it all over again, and 85% say they plan to buy another in the future.
