Instead of getting the latest video game system or meeting a celebrity, a young boy who was diagnosed with a life-threatening illness last year has used his Make-A-Wish opportunity to help the homeless in his community.

Abraham and his mother, Miriam, have a passion for taking care of the homeless around their neighborhood in Jackson, Mississippi. The pair have a history of providing food to the needy every third Saturday, and they recently got added help from the Make-A-Wish foundation in Mississippi after he was diagnosed with a rare disease, aplastic anemia, in 2020.

The condition causes the body to stop producing enough new blood cells, leaving patients exhausted and easier to suffer infection and uncontrolled bleeding. Abraham later experienced a successful bone marrow transplant (骨髓移植) and found out he was qualified to have one of his dreams fulfilled by Make-A-Wish. It didn't take long for Abraham to think of the perfect choice. He would continue the mission that was important to him and his mom. With the help of the foundation, Abraham fed about 80 people in Jackson in September.

When the homeless people got the plate, some of them would come back and sing to them and thank them. "And it just really feels good; it warms our hearts. And my parents always taught me that it's a blessing to be a blessing," Abraham said.

Not only that, but Make-A-Wish said they would help Abraham feed the homeless in Jackson every third Saturday until August 2022, ensuring that he could help even more people in need.

Abraham did receive a few gifts from Make-A-Wish, including a new laptop, a ring light, and a microphone to help him start a channel on a social media platform. He also plans to start a non-profit called "Abraham's Table" to continue his mission.

24. How often do Abraham and his mom offer food to those in need?
A. At least once a day. B. At least once a week.
C. At least once a month. D. At least once a year.
25. What can we infer about Abraham from paragraph 3?
A. He is doing what he wants to. B. He has been completely cured.
C. He decided to support his family. D. He got a mission from an organization.
26. What does Abraham mean to do?
A. Start a public welfare program. B. Send more Make-A-Wish cards.
C. Join a non-profit organization. D. Feed the homeless every Saturday.
27. Which of the following can best describe Abraham?
A. Imaginative and practical. B. Ambitious and creative.

C. Caring and considerate.

D. Determined and patient.

Can people who understand the emotions of others better interpret emotions conveyed through music? A new study by an international team of researchers suggests the abilities are linked.

The study's results provide a foundation for future research that could test the impact of socially engaged music listening on social cognitive ability, and whether listening to music can be added to therapeutic(治疗的) techniques used in social skills training for individuals with autism spectrum disorder(孤独症谱系障碍).

The findings were published recently in a scientific journal of the American Psychological Association. The study was led by Benjamin A. Tabak, assistant professor of psychology. "Empathy(共情) is most often thought of in the context of social interactions, but there are many other forms of social communication, including music," Tabak said. "Music can convey meaning and emotion and also bring emotional responses, but what is responsible for its emotional power is poorly understood."

Tabak and his colleagues wanted to test their theory about empathy and music. For the purposes of this study, they measured the ability to correctly understand others' thoughts and feelings—empathic accuracy—and the extent to which one feels the emotions that another feels.

"We thought it would be interesting to study whether people who more accurately understand others' thoughts and feelings might also be more accurate in understanding what musicians are intending to convey through music," Tabak said. "Similarly, we wanted to know whether people who tend to feel the emotions that others are experiencing also tend to feel the emotions conveyed through music."

The initial set of findings found support for both hypotheses. In particular, the results suggest that empathic accuracy as a skill extends beyond interpersonal interactions into music. Tabak believes that the study provides tentative support for the theory that music is first and foremost a social behavior that gradually develops to help individuals connect with others and better understand and manage their social environment.

28. What can the study result be used to do?

- A. Be the basis for the next study.      B. Apply music to social skills training.
C. Decide the music suitable for autism.      D. Test the impact of music on emotions.

29. About the link between music and emotions, what needs further understanding?

- A. The effect of music.      B. The academic support.
C. The function of music.      D. The emotions music expresses.

30. What is Tabak's attitude towards the study?

- A. Ignorant.      B. Confident.      C. Pessimistic.      D. Doubtful.

31. Which can be the best title for the text?

- A. The Social Behavior Music Reflects
B. The Ability To Accurately Understand Empathy
C. Research Shows The Role Empathy May Play In Music

D. Research Will Set Foundation For Further Research

阅读下面短文, 从短文后的选项选出可以填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

I started my practice specializing in sleep disorders, and soon came to realise how strongly loneliness was linked with poor sleep. I've expanded on my skills and understanding of loneliness in order to know how I could best serve my clients.

What is loneliness? It's an emotion. We probably all experience it at some point, but loneliness is very complex and unique to each of us. 36 Solitude(独处) is a choice, but feeling lonely isn't something that we force ourselves to accept. You want to be around people, but something is making you feel unwanted, empty or isolated, so you're not having the meaningful connection you seek.

When does it become a problem? When you're feeling lonely over a long period of time, it can turn into a mental and physical health problem, and can be a symptom or cause of depression. 37 You might turn to food and not feel motivated to exercise, as chronic(长期的) loneliness is linked to increased risk of high blood pressure, obesity and even dementia.

38 Accept and acknowledge it. Loneliness is a valid feeling. Don't brush it under the carpet, as that doesn't help solve the problem. Seek joy in little things, like smelling a flower or a walk in nature. Celebrate each small achievement. When you decide to change things and seek a connection with others, consider a like-minded group. 39

How can people help someone who is lonely? The best approach is to ask how they are and what they're doing, and listen to the answer in a non-judgmental way. If you want to invite them to do something with you, do it. 40 They might need time before feeling ready to say yes.

- A. It can also affect self-respect.
- B. How can you manage loneliness?
- C. How can you become a specialist in loneliness?
- D. If they say no, don't discourage you from asking again.
- E. There's a big difference between solitude and loneliness.
- F. A person with loneliness may have few friends to talk with.
- G. A client of mine joined a sewing group and it was very successful.

When we lost our beloved ones, we must feel heartbroken. However, we can do something to make the world remember them.

My little boy, Matthew, had recently lost his beloved grandma. He would often push hard my hand in tears, longing for his grandma to come back to the world. One day, he had an idea. He asked me if we could do something in honor of Grandma so the world could remember her. When I welcomed his lovely suggestion, he said we could create something special for the children at the hospital, since Grandma had always wanted to volunteer there. Although her heart was so ready to give, her physical capacity was limited. She couldn't drive or make the long walk over to the hospital and therefore had spent the majority of her days doing what she could for her family and friends. So, we decided to fulfill Grandma's last life wish.

Matthew and I teamed up and presented our kindness proposal to his preschool classmates. We energized them with the prospect of going shopping and purchasing small gifts(chocolates, flowers, and cards) which they could put into handcrafted holiday baskets which the kids themselves could make. It would be a basket which was wholly made by one child and solely for another. As the young faces happily agreed, we were off on executing our plan!

Matthew and I scouted out(搜索) the most child-friendly stores and distributed fliers(传单) at these locations so the store owners were aware of our plan and could bring their most cherished items for the preschoolers to purchase. Matthew's preschool peers selectively made their picks, and after we collected all of the items, we placed the chocolates, flowers, and got well cards into seven beautifully crafted baskets for the bedridden children at our local Children's Hospital. When Matthew and two of his other little mates came to the hospital to make their deliveries, they were greeted with a tour of the facilities before they entered into each hospital room to change a sick child into a smiling one.

注意:

1. 续写词数应为 150 左右;
2. 请按如下格式在答题卡的相应位置作答。

Now, five years have passed, and the Matthew "hospital" tradition has continued.

Matthew's school and the local church have contributed to the rise of gift baskets.

M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club—we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages—you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday—Spanish; Tuesday—Italian; Wednesday—German; and Friday—French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

W: There are many candidates for this promotion. In my opinion, Mr Bannister has proven himself to the company, but he doesn't have much experience.

M: I agree with you, Amelia, but we shouldn't ignore Mrs Templeton. She really helped us a lot with the trade deal last year.

W: I didn't think about that. You're right. We should go with her, as she's been with us longer.

M: Let's inform Mr Duncan that we've reached a decision.

W: No. I'm wandering around the hotel. It's really a good place.

M: Yeah. You work out, right? Go and take a look at the fitness center.

W: Where is that?

M: You can get to the fitness center from the back of the hotel. It's on the right side of the business center.

W: Sounds good. Where are the conference rooms we'll be using tomorrow?

M: Well, that sounds good. So what's on your list?

W: Let's see. We've got some meat at home already, but we need something for a salad. We need some tomatoes, carrots and green onions.

M: Sounds very healthy.

W: The apples look really good today. Let's pick up some, too. Plus we need to get some bananas. Would you like some milk or cheese?

M: No, they are not my taste.

W: Then can you get a box of ice cream?

M: Sure, I love ice cream best.

W: I think that's everything we need. Let's go home and cook dinner.

M: Is someone having her birthday?

W: No, Jenny is throwing a party at her house in Hill Peak this Friday. You know she is moving to New York next week.

M: I see. The closing time of the subway in that area is pretty early. Do you need me to pick you up when the party is done.

W: Or maybe you can let me drive your car?

M: No, you just got your license. It's not safe.

W: Oh, come on. Fine, I'll let you know when it's over. By the way, what gift should I bring for Jenny?

M: I'm not sure. Some flowers? Or some chocolate, maybe?

W: Well, I'm thinking something that will last, something special.

M: How about the wooden boat you made for months? I remember Jenny liked it very much last time she saw it.

W: You're a genius, Daddy! Thank you.

M: What is it like to travel in space? If you have ever watched space movies, you may know something about it. Aurora Station is the world's first space hotel. The US company Orion Span built the hotel. The hotel is around 12 feet wide and 35 feet long. It is going to welcome its first guests soon. It will fly 320 kilometers above the Earth. It can hold six people at a time. Two of them will be workers. They may be former NASA astronauts. Each trip aboard the station will last for 12 days. Guests there will be able to do many interesting things. For example, they will see around 16 sunrises and sunsets every 24 hours. They can take part in research experiments such as growing food in space. Later, they can bring the food back to the Earth. These are the same things as astronauts usually do. Guests can also share what they see and hear with others on the Earth. They can have a video chat using a high-speed Internet connection. But each guest will have to pay at least $9.5 million. That's really a large amount of money.

Furthermore, I am a detail-oriented and dedicated individual who is committed to delivering the best possible results. I'm also a quick learner who can adapt to new environments and situations easily.

Thank you for considering my application. I'll contribute to the success of your company if I get the opportunity to work with your team. Looking forward to your reply.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

第二节

参考范文：

Now, five years have passed, and the Matthew "hospital" tradition has continued. We continue to make the baskets of sweetness and wellness for the children. The children together with us are continuously increasing, because as this event has become a permanent thing in our lives, so have these children too. In this spirit of expansion, we have seen this sense of community spread as the gift baskets now include not only items we purchase from stores, but also donated items from Matthew's school and our church.

Matthew's school and the local church have contributed to the rise of gift baskets. The number of gift baskets have risen from seven to fifty. In addition to distributing the baskets to our local children's hospital, we now work together to distribute them to other children's hospitals that assist children who are suffering cancer. Seeing the children's smiles makes us delighted and encouraged. My little Matthew finally has helped his beloved grandma achieve her dream. Her spirit of kindness will always live on in the hearts of these small children.
