Dear friends,

I am Li Hua. On behalf of our school, I feel greatly privileged to extend our warm welcome to you.

As scheduled, we will first show you around our campus to get you acquainted with the environment, after which our school headmaster will make a speech, introducing our school's history and some conventional practices of our school. In the afternoon, there will be an exchange activity among students so that we can communicate with each other face to face. Moreover, a talent show will be held where everyone can show their talents and strengthen our mutual understanding.

I sincerely hope that you can enjoy yourselves and wish you a pleasant journey.

第二节 (满分 25 分)

The boys watched, open-mouthed, as their baby sister placed her favorite doll in the box. Without a word, Brad rose and went to his room. He came back carrying one of his favorite action figures. He hesitated briefly, clutching the toy, then looked over at Meghan and placed it in the box next to Lucy. A slow smile spread across Brett's face. Then he jumped up, eyes twinkling as he ran to fetch some of his prized Matchbox cars. Astonished, I realized that the boys had also recognized what little Meghan's gesture meant.

I looked at my children for a long moment. Swallowing back tears, I pulled all three of them into my arms. Taking the cue from my little one, I removed my old jacket from the box of clothes. I replaced it with the new hunter green jacket that I had found on sale last week. I hoped the young woman in the picture would love it as much as I did. It's easy to give that which we don't want any more, but harder to let go of things we cherish, isn't it? However, the true spirit of giving is to give with your heart.
