写作一:

Good morning, everyone! Today, I'm so honored to be here and deliver the speech titled "The Fruit of Labor Is Sweetest."

It's well known that Chinese people attach great importance to labour, for it not only creates a better environment for us to live in but also advocates the spirit of diligence. As for me, there are various kinds of labour tasks to do, such as helping clean the house, washing dishes after dinner and sweeping floor. Besides, I also work as a volunteer for the school library, where I help to clean the shelves and sort the books. Doing all these chores helps me learn to be more independent and responsible, thus making me feel a sense of achievement.

All in all, labour can do good to students both mentally and physically, and it's time for us to experience the pleasure of labour. Let's take action right now!

Thanks for listening!

写作二:

They darted over to the sink and turned on the tap. The water running, they quickly threw the jacket into the sink. With his heart beating wildly, Derek rubbed the green marks with the soaps, and washed/scrubbed them carefully. The water soon formed into a pile of bubbles. After washing away the bubbles and squeezing the water out, they couldn't wait to turn it over. To their disappointment, the green marks were still there! Derek's heart sank.

"Oh dear, the green stuff was still there." Janey sighed, "I think we have to tell the truth." Gathering up his courage, Derek headed to the office with Janey. Derek told Mr. Such everything and apologized to him. "I am sorry I ruined your jacket." However, Mr. Such said gently, "Anyway I really appreciate your courage to admit your mistake." Surprised, Derek and Janey asked anxiously, "But what about the Parents' meeting?" Mr. Such put on his old jacket and replied, "This one just suits me better." With laughter lingering in the office, they all felt a warm current welling up in their hearts.
