New Beginnings

There are two children in my family. I am three years younger than my 29 Tova, and I think everything she does is great. When I was a kid, I liked to follow her and her friends around, hoping to become one of them, but there wasn't much 30 for a troublesome sister. Over time, there is a distance (距离) between us although we live in the same 31.

So when she tells me she's going to China to study, I don't care much. But the first night after she leaves, I keep thinking that something is 32. The house is too quiet. I feel just how different it is when she isn't at home. I cry sadly. But as the night falls, my tears turn into tears of calm (平静), tears of 33 beginnings—I decide to do something.

I pick up the phone.

"Hello?" Her voice sounds familiar (熟悉的).

"Hey, Tova. It's me, Sara. I'm just 34 to tell you I love you." My words come out quickly. I know that if I stop in the middle, I won't 35 them. "I know we aren't as close as some sisters, but that doesn't mean I'm not missing you."

After a long silence, she finally says, "Your voice makes me feel that you are by my side."

And before the call ends, she says very quickly, "I love you, too."

I never feel so 36 to have Tova as my sister. I'm hoping to see my sister back home this December.

SOS! Need help here! Got to make a presentation (展示) next Monday, but I am so scared of speaking in front of the class! Do you have any tips (策略)? 🙏🙏🙏

 Jimmy

 Anne

Take it easy. Find out the reasons why you are scared. Then, tell yourself they are not true. I always tell myself: I've worked hard on this, and I can make it! 🌍🌍🌍

 Claire

Talk to someone who has these skills. Ask them how they find ways to stay calm when they speak in front of others. This often helps a lot!

 David

Practice (练习) every day before the presentation. Once you know what you are going to say, you probably (可能) will be a lot less scared.

 Tony

Start your speech with a joke. A joke makes you relaxed, and it also makes people interested!

 Linda

A lot of people get scared in this situation (情境). You are not the only one!

37. What is Jimmy doing?

A. Asking for help.

C. Making up stories.

B. Writing an email.

D. Giving a presentation.

38. How many people reply (回复)?

Milly sat under the apple tree and watched the rain clouds over the hills. What a wet day! She never liked wet days. She ate an apple and waited for the rain to stop.

Soon it did. The sky turned blue again, and the sun shone, warm and golden. Then she saw the rainbow. The sky filled with beautiful colors: blue, orange, green and purple. Then both ends of the rainbow began to fall to the earth ...

The rainbow landed (降落) in the garden. "Wow!" Milly went closer. Then she had a thought. "GOLD! There is always gold at the end of a rainbow!" She dropped to her knees and started to dig.

She went deeper and deeper. Then she saw something shiny. She took it out. It was a gold coin. She made it clean. There were words on it: Make a wish before the rainbow fades.

"This is amazing! A wish!" Milly said. Her head began to fill with ideas. But then she saw the rainbow fading.

"No! I haven't made up my mind! Please wait!" But the rainbow was still fading. "Oh ...! Yes. YES! I have it!" Milly made her wish. VOOMF! The rainbow was gone, so was the gold coin.

Milly didn't move. Did her wish come true?

She looked up. The sky was blue. The sun was golden and warm. Such a beautiful (美丽的) day! "Even if the wish doesn't come true, I'm a very lucky girl," she said. And she smiled.

47. What did Milly see when she was sitting under an apple tree?

- A. A flower.      B. A rainbow.      C. A coin.      D. An orange.

48. The underlined word "fades" in the story means "_____".

Human bodies are a miracle (奇迹). Let's look at one example first.

How can you tell whether something is hot or cold? You touch it. There are things in your fingers that help you to know whether something is hot or cold. They're called nerves (神经). You have them all over your body. Nerves react (反应) to things we touch and send messages (消息) through our bodies to our brains, telling us how something feels.

If you touched the edge of a knife, how would that feel? It would hurt. If you didn't have nerves, you would still bleed, but it wouldn't hurt. You wouldn't be able to feel it. So, why are nerves a good thing? We would hurt ourselves a lot more without them.

Imagine that you're making a snack in the kitchen. You put your hand down on the stove. After a minute or two, you see some smoke rising in the air. It's your hand! It's burning! If you had no nerves, you wouldn't be able to feel the heat from the stove. Then you would have to go to the hospital.

If we had no nerves, the weather wouldn't affect (影响) us, or would it? If it were below 0°C, you wouldn't feel how cold it was. But if you went outside without protecting (保护) your body from the cold, you could get very sick or die. Nerves help us stay safe and healthy.

There are many other parts in our body that make us a miracle ...

51. Nerves work by _____.
- touching something
  - showing brains what to do
  - telling the hot from the cold
  - sending messages to the brain
52. With the help of nerves, we _____.
- get hurt less often
  - don't feel a lot of pain
  - don't bleed that much
  - stay away from hospitals
53. The writer uses the examples of the knife and the stove to show _____.
- why nerves keep us from heat
  - how our fingers react to smoke
  - when people shouldn't use knives
  - what it is like if we have no nerves
54. What might the writer write about next?
- Ways to protect ourselves.
  - Different nerves in our body.
  - Other great parts in our body.
  - Miracles made by our nerves.

Hi,

I am a 12-year-old girl and a middle school student. I have been under a lot of stress (压力) lately. Middle school life is quite different. I have to work really hard because I don't want to be left behind (落后). Besides, my parents keep telling me that I am not working hard enough and I should spend more time studying ...

Well, I know they love me, and they want the best for me. Mom always cooks the best food, and Dad drives me to and from school every day. They will do everything for me, but I am so stressed out (紧张). What should I do? Do you have any suggestions (建议) that can help?

Yours,

Grace
